Friends,

Yes, there are several potential presidential candidates whose policy proposals make a lot of sense but when it comes down to it, we are STILL YEARNING FOR BERNIE!

He's the only one who has been consistent in his principles for the last 37 years in public office; the only one who has long term experience in both the House and the Senate, so he knows what he's up against; and the only one who can build on a deep existing base of tens of millions of supporters like us. Like you.

We're still yearning for Bernie because he's still yearning to end wealth and income inequality.

And we're yearning for Bernie because we know he can get Big Money out of politics and create a system that works for all of us. Let's elect a president who refuses to be bought out by special interests and corporate lobbyists.

We're supporting him because the next President of the United States will decide the fate of this country and our planet, and we believe Bernie is the best person for the job.
